

Woodstock Vote Set On Sewage Proposal

WOODSTOCK Property owners in the Town of Woodstock will vote Nov. 7, 8 and 9 on whether they want the Town Board to proceed with the final engineering report on the proposed $2.5 million sewage collection and treatment system.

But it's very likely that the issue will remain far from settled even after all the ballots are counted.

The three-day advisory referendum is intended primarily to give town officials an indication of where local sentiments lie concerning the controversial sewage proposal. A "yes" vote next month won't commit any funds toward the project and won't even decide for certain that the sewage plan will be implemented. By the same token, a "no" vote won't necessarily kill the project or prevent the town from continuing its study.

Among the purposes of the engineering report is to determine whether the projected $2.5 million cost is, in fact, realistic. When the final report is completed, and if cost estimates remain essentially the same, the Town Board may then vote to establish the sewer district and raise the necessary money through the sale of bonds.

Town of Woodstock Supervisor Verner May has assured residents that, if cost estimates come in appreciably higher, the Town Board will call for a second referendum, rather than approving the project by resolution. But whatever the final engineering report reveals, a permissive referendum may be mandated if 10 per cent of the town's registered voters sign a petition demanding just that.

But of immediate concern is the vote coming up in November, which both proponents and opponents see as a crucial battle in the larger war to determine in what direction Woodstock heads in future years.

No one is confidently predicting the outcome of the three-day vote in November, such is the mania that both sides seem to possess over the controversial project. But neither does either side refute claims that there is a desperate need to better control the community's sewage.

Woodstock's sewage is now exclusively handled by privately owned septic tanks. With passing years, and the accompanying growth in the community's business and residential population, many of the septic tanks and fields have become overburdened, causing pollution of local streams and waterways and fouling the air at times with the stench of human and commercial waste.

Dr. Bartholomew B. Dutto, Commissioner of the Ulster County Health Department, has described the situation as "serious," has warned that the excess bacteria in the water and air could lead to an outbreak of disease and has further warned that health authorities could be forced to close businesses and place a moratorium on any future building in the central portion of town if the situation becomes much worse.

Those gloomy prospects are commonly cited by supporters who argue in favor of the proposed $2.5 million project. They contend that any further delays in the implementation of a sewage plan could have a devastating impact on the environment of the entire community. And while some concede that the cost is significant, they contend that the longer the town waits the more it will cost to solve the problem, and that any alternative methods that might be available are either unfeasible or monetarily prohibitive.

But the cost of the project is precisely why many property owners in the town have lined up against the proposal. They point out that, with 40 years of interest on the $2.5 million bond issue, the total cost of the project will exceed $8 million; that some residents may not be able to afford the increased tax or the hook-up costs; and that provisions have not been made for people who are living on fixed incomes.

But those who support the issue point out that even $8 million, spread out over 40 years, won't place an undue strain on most of the town's taxpayers. Woodstock councilwoman Val Cadden recently conducted a study of anticipated costs, and reported that better than half of the town's private property owners would pay less than $180 during the first year of service. Only ten per cent, she said, would pay more than $270 for the first year. And in the outlying districts (2, 3 and 4), 98 per cent would pay less than $65 the first year. The costs decrease each year until the debt is paid off.

Since the first phase of the sewer district would cover only the hamlet of Woodstock, much of the opposition has come from residents who reside in the outlying areas of Zena, Bearsville, Shady, Lake Hill, Wittenberg and Willow, who won't derive any immediate benefits from the plan, but who will have to share in some of the costs.

Ms. Cadden has already maintained that those who live outside the hamlet will be paying a relatively small amount for the initial system that may eventually be extended. Others have pointed out that, without the help of the outlying communities, the cost for property owners in the immediate vicinity of Woodstock hamlet would be virtually prohibitive.

But opponents have other arguments, as well. Some suggest that installation of a sewer system would serve as a magnet for large residential and industrial developments, not all in character with Woodstock's semi-rural and pristine nature. And others contend that the problem could be substantially alleviated by forcing the most extensive polluters to clean up.

They maintain, too, that other alternatives should be considered, such as a series of small sewage disposal plants, installation of Swedish toilets or incinerators, or improvements to existing drain fields.

Those alternatives, supporters counter, are simply not practical in most cases and economically absurd in just about all instances. They argue that, unless Woodstock takes immediate and pervasive steps to cure its sewage woes, the adverse impact on the health and environment of one of New York's truly unique communities will be devastating.

Voting will take place Nov. 7 and 8 from 12 noon to 8 p.m. and on Nov. 9 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., at the Woodstock Town Hall. Only property owners are eligible to vote; if property is under joint ownership, all owners may cast a ballot. Only one designated officer of a property-owning corporation may vote. No individual may vote more than once.

With the ground rules laid, but the outcome still very much undecided, both sides are enlisting troops for the battle at the ballot box. The controversy promises to continue long after the last vote is cast.

ANGELL MAKES POINT AS FISH LISTENS

Fish and Angell ... Different Ideas

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr., the Republican Conservative incumbent and Democrat-Liberal challenger, Nicholas B. Angell, has found little common ground as they gave the issues a thorough going over in an hour and a half debate at Temple Emanuel Sunday.

It was the last major confrontation in Ulster County between two of the three candidates for Congress in the 25th District. The third, Free Libertarian Party candidate, Sanford Cohen, was not invited to Sunday's breakfast debate.

Fish and Angell seemed to agree on the problems, at least those concerning the economy, but when it came to solutions or remedies their paths diverged.

Both, for instance, are opposed to President Ford's five per cent surtax on persons earning more than $15,000 a year as well as Ford's proposal to add ten cents tax to each gallon of gasoline as tools against inflation.

Both, for instance, are opposed to President Nixon and the Rockefeller as vice president. Fish, on the latter subject, said he has been asked not to declare himself by House Judiciary Committee Peter

Fish indicated that Congress is already working on remedies, specifically, plans to tax some 400 pages of an FBI Field "windfall profits" of the oil companies to the tune of some $12 billion over the next four years. Fish suggests that if there is to be a surtax, it should start at the $20,000 income level and should start at one per cent and be graduated.

Angell is opposed to any kind of surtax. He feels the federal budget should be reduced by ten to 14 billion dollars rather than identified with powerful financial interests.

He says we should get out of the Vietnam War completely within the next two years at a saving of up to $3 billion a year. He says we should pull out half our 500,000 troops in Europe over the next three years at an annual savings of $5 billion. He hopes for more paratroopers and Marines, "tough troops like the Israelis have," rather than the "fat, lazy troops we've got in Germany."

The two candidates were in substantial disagreement on a number of political subjects, including the pardon of Nixon and the pardon of Ford, which Fish said was a complete picture.

Hassles Heat Watergate Trial

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defense attorneys in the Watergate cover-up trial charged today that former Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski has not abided by a court-imposed obligation "to keep his mouth shut" about the case.

The lawyers' complaint was registered before E. Howard Hunt Jr., one of the leaders of the 1972 Watergate break-in, was called to the stand as a "court witness"—a technique, which the defense also protested, allowing the prosecutors to call him without vouching for the accuracy of his testimony.

John J. Wilson, lawyer for former White House Chief of Staff H.R. Haldeman, said that Jaworski, who resigned from the job of special prosecutor last Friday, was "going the circuit of panel shows."

Wilson added that Jaworski's former counsel, Phillip A. Lacovara, also has submitted lengthy media interviews.

Wilson said neither Jaworski nor Lacovara have abided by the rule that a lawyer in the Watergate case has a "continuing obligation to keep his mouth shut."

Chief trial prosecutor James F. Neal replied that his courtroom team had no control over Jaworski and Lacovara.

Judge John J. Sirica, taking note of a story in the Washington Post today on his handling of courtroom rules, responded by saying that the "gag rule" he imposed at the time of the indictments in the case last March 1 was still in effect.

"I would hope everybody stopped talking about this case," Sirica said. "I'm trying to give them a fair trial."

Neal said the prosecution plans to call about 35 witnesses and that it would seek to have about three of them, including Hunt, appear as court witnesses.

Defense lawyers protested the use of such a technique so early in a trial is unprecedented, but Sirica overruled them.

Haldeman's lawyer, John J. Wilson, was especially vehement about instructions to the jury on the procedure of calling court witnesses.

"I have never read such a startling charge in my life," Wilson said. "It's deceptive. It's not honest."

Plato Cacher's, one of Mitchell's lawyers, called the procedure an "improper influence on the jury. I therefore resist it and resist it vigorously."

Richard Ben-Veniste, an assistant prosecutor who Hunt claims tried to get him to commit perjury, said there are numerous instances before the grand jury when Hunt lied and that the court witness device would permit leading questions to bring out Hunt's motivations to testify falsely.

David G. Bress, representing Mardian, said what the prosecution was proposing was to "say they have a witness who will make out their case but that witness is a liar."

And chief prosecutor James F. Neal said that the government's theory in the case is "that the defendants conspired to pay money . . . to Mr. Hunt to keep him from telling what he knows." He said it was necessary to probe exactly what it was that Hunt knew.

At that point Sirica said he would allow Hunt to testify as a court witness.

Armer had pleaded guilty to second degree murder in the June 14, 1951 shooting death of Cpl. Arthur Diffendale. According to reports at the time of the shooting, the trooper had pulled over Armer's pickup truck and was walking toward it when one shot rang out from the vehicle, dropping him to the ground.

Armer would have been eligible for parole in November 1975, according to officials. He has been in and out of prisons since the age of 19, officials said.

Both escapees are to be considered dangerous, police warned.

Nixon Will Undergo Tests

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Former president Richard Nixon, described as "pale and drawn," today begins a week of sophisticated tests to determine if surgery is needed to halt the steady deterioration of circulation in his left leg.

Doctors indicate there is virtually no chance of his appearing to testify at the Watergate cover-up trial in Washington, and it is growing more likely he will be operated on.

Even under the best of circumstances, Nixon's health rules out travel for at least two months, the former president's many months," he said.

physician, Dr. John Lungren, told a news conference Sunday. The trial of Nixon's former aides could be over by then. "If surgery is required, he would be unavailable over the long haul to make a court appearance," Lungren said.

Nixon is doing well "as long as he is flat in bed with his feet in the air," according to a consulting physician, Dr. Wiley.

But "under any circumstances, it is going to be necessary to be certain that he stays under close medical supervision for a protracted period of time—and by protracted I mean for months," he said.

More sophisticated tests are being employed, Lungren said, and "if we find . . . active clotting, then the chances of surgical intervention are good. We wouldn't risk it (postponing surgery) any longer."

The deep femoral vein, from knee to groin, in Nixon's leg is in condition from causing loose blood clots that could be fatal.

Dr. Scott Driscoll, a cardiovascular radiologist and UCLA medical school professor, said.

Ron Ziegler, Nixon's former press secretary who has been with him at San Clemente, visited the former president at Long Beach Memorial Hospital X-rays.

Two Escapees Sought

STORMVILLE An alert has been issued throughout the entire eastern United States for two men, including one convicted of killing a New York State trooper, who on Saturday became the first inmates ever to escape from inside the walls of the maximum-security Green Haven Correctional Facility.

State police said they are following all leads in their intensive search for Matthew Armer, 55, originally from Nassau in Rensselaer County, and Robert Enright, 40, of the Bronx, who were discovered missing during a head-count at the Dutchess County prison Saturday night.

How the two men got out of the so-called escape-proof prison continued to stump prison officials today. No force was used, and high walls surround the maximum-security facilities, a spokesman explained.

A correction officer told the Freeman today that he has worked at Green Haven since it first became a maximum-security state prison in 1949 and "this is the first" anyone has ever broken out from inside the walls.

Roadblocks were set up Saturday in Dutchess County after the pair was discovered missing, and the entire prison and 70-acre grounds were searched to no avail.

The roadblocks were removed by Sunday as the search was widened. State police have reported that it is believed Armer and Enright might have made it into New York City, but the search is also reaching into other areas, officials said.

A spokesman for the Green Haven Correctional Facility explained today that prisoner counts are taken once a day in the evening. He added that it is believed the two made it out of the prison sometime Saturday morning, but exactly when or how is still not known.

Armer was serving a 15-year-to-life sentence for slaying a state trooper near Oneonta in 1951. Enright was serving up

Ford Johnson

More Gloomy Economy Forecasts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two high-ranking administration officials predict unemployment will not back down on his 5 per cent income surtax proposal, though the level at which it applies may be open to compromise.

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield calls it "just a matter of time" before wage-price controls are reimposed. Treasury Secretary William E. Simon, who Sunday counseled against "hysterical" cries of depression, said mandatory oil controls are looming if conservation doesn't better price performance along with a higher rate of unemployment and a "wakening level of business activity."

He also said President Ford will not back down on his 5 per cent income surtax proposal, though the level at which it applies may be open to compromise. Joining Simon in predicting unemployment may rise from the current 5.8 per cent to as much as 6.5 per cent by next spring was Alan Greenspan, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers. Greenspan said the short-term economic outlook is dim. He added: "By the spring of ABC's 'Issues and Answers' I would expect a Report. Mansfield appeared on CBS "Face the Nation." Mansfield said Congress is too divided right now among various economic proposals, but that it should be up to Ford to take the lead in fighting inflation. "I think it's just going to be a matter of time before we come to wage and price controls," he said. "With unemployment reaching 6 per cent and going to depression and recession, which is above that, with prices still going up 12.1 per cent from now...."

17 Still Being Held

THE HAGUE (UPI) — The Dutch government insisted on the release of all women and children hostages today before negotiating with four convicts, including an Arab guerrilla, barricaded in a prison chapel.

The prisoners unexpectedly freed an elderly man, three children and a woman Sunday, but kept on holding 17 other hostages, including two women and a child.

Dutch officials said the prisoners demanded the transfer of an Arab guerrilla inmate from the prison hospital to the chapel, but gave no indication of the ultimate goal of the takeover.

A Justice Ministry spokesman said officials in contact with the second-story chapel by walkie-talkie insisted on the release of all women and children as a precondition to negotiations.

Rain whipped by North Sea winds lashed the red brick prison walls. Police ringed the prison and marine marksmen took up positions on nearby rooftops.

The convicts took over the chapel at Scheveningen Prison during a Roman Catholic mass Saturday, capturing 22 persons — two guards, a priest, an organist, a nine-member visiting choir and nine relatives of the singers.

Police identified the rebel inmates as Palestinian guerrilla Adnan Ahmad Nuri, Algerian thief Mohamed Koudache and prison hospital, has been undergoing treatment since a 12-day hunger strike to protest being separated from Nuri.

Nuri and Tamimah were serving five-year terms for hijacking a British Airways jetliner last March and setting the aircraft on fire at Amsterdam airport.

The two guerrillas identified themselves as members of the Arab Nationalist Youth Movement for the Liberation of Palestine, a breakaway group condemned by the Palestine Liberation Organization.

The prison rebellion came at the start of the Arab summit conference in Rabat, Morocco, but Dutch officials expressed doubt that the two events were the Palestinian inmate in the linked.

New Way Found To Stop Hair Loss, Grow More Hair

HOUSTON, Texas — If you don't suffer from male pattern baldness, you can now stop your hair loss... and grow more hair.

For years "they said it couldn't be done." But now a firm of laboratory consultants has developed a treatment for both men and women, that is not only stopping hair loss... but is really growing hair!

They don't even ask you to take their word for it. They invite you to try the treatment for 32 days, at their risk, and see for yourself!

Naturally, they would not offer this opportunity unless the treatment worked. However, it is impossible to help everyone.

The great majority of cases of excessive hair fall and baldness are the beginning stages of male pattern baldness and cannot be helped.

But, if you are not already slick bald, how can you be sure what is actually causing your hair loss? Even if baldness may seem to "run in your family," this is certainly no proof of the cause of YOUR hair loss.

Hair loss caused by sebum can also run in your family, and many other conditions can cause hair loss. No matter which one is causing your hair loss, if you wait until you are slick bald and your hair roots are dead, you are beyond help. So, if you still have any hair on top of your head and would like to stop your hair loss and grow more hair... now is the time to do something about it before it's too late.

Loesch Laboratory Consultants, Inc., will supply you with treatment for 32 days, at their risk, if they believe the treatment will help you. Just send them the information listed below. All inquiries are answered confidentially, by mail and without obligation.

Coed's Remains Are Found

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (UPI) — For the parents of Karen Levy, a Syracuse University coed who disappeared two years ago, the painful uncertainty has finally ended.

Using a bulldozer, police over the weekend uncovered the decomposed remains of the 18-year-old girl, buried face-down 2½ feet below the surface near the Onondaga County sewage treatment plant in suburban Salina.

Karen would have been 20 years old today.

Police said a ring found on the body, as well as keys and other articles found nearby, leave them with little doubt that the body is the coed's.

The county medical examiner's office was scheduled today to begin a painstaking examination of the remains, expected to take several days, to positively identify the body.

Syracuse Police Chief Thomas J. Sardino said authorities were directed to the body Saturday by John E. Harris, 23, of Cicero, who originally was been questioned about another case.

Harris, an employee at the plant, was arraigned over the weekend on an attempted murder charge stemming from an unrelated assault in March. Sardino said Harris was being held without bail in the Public Safety Building jail but no additional charges would be placed until the medical examiner's report was complete.

Miss Levy, of the Philadelphia suburb of Cherry Hill, N.J., was last seen alive on Nov. 10, 1972, when despite misgivings she accepted a ride to visit her boyfriend from a man who called himself "Bill Lacey." Her boyfriend, a student at Monmouth College in New Jersey, called authorities when she failed to arrive.

"We can pick up our lives now and try to live a halfway normal life," said Bertram Levy, Karen's father, contacted while on vacation in Las Vegas. "We're in a state of shock, but we had to know one way or the other."

"I hope he pays for his crime so he can't do it to anyone else."

Police theorized that after Miss Levy was picked up, she was struck over the head with a shovel, dragged to the landfill site, strangled and buried.

Mrs. Bertram Levy, the girl's mother, said it had been "a long two years" waiting for word on the fate of her daughter.

"We are emotionally spent," she said. "We were hoping, wishing for a miracle, but did not truly expect it."

Mrs. Levy said she and her husband would return to Cherry Hill and await positive identification of the body before going to Syracuse.

She blamed "unadjusted, maladjusted misfits in this world," for her daughter's death.

Her husband added that they had gone to Las Vegas a few days ago "even though we were apprehensive about it." They were planning a trip there two years ago when their daughter accepted a ride from "Bill Lacey."

Security Guard Charged

CHICAGO (UPI) — A security guard believed to be the "insider" who helped pull off the biggest cash heist in American history — a $4.3 million theft from an Armored Express Co. vault — was arrested Sunday by police and FBI agents.

Ralph Marrera, 31, was seized before dawn at his father-in-law's suburban Oak Park home, where he apparently had been hiding since becoming a suspect in last week's burglary.

He was to appear before a U.S. magistrate later today, but authorities refused to disclose where he was being held pending his court appearance.

Federal marshals took elaborate security measures to protect Marrera from underworld figures who might try to take his life.

Marrera was described by U.S. Attorney James R. Thompson as a key to the theft.

He was picked up for questioning last Tuesday after failing a lie detector test, but was released for lack of evidence.

Marrera was charged Friday in a federal warrant accusing him of bank larceny, burglary and illegal use of explosive devices, but by that time he had dropped out of sight. There were reports that Marrera — hired by Armored Express two months before the burglary — had gone into hiding for fear attempts would be made on his life and planned to surrender to police.

Thompson said Marrera knows enough about the burglary that the thieves still being sought would try to kill him and other underworld elements would go after him.

Upon his arrest, Marrera reportedly told police, "There's a lot of guys out to kill me. Are you guys out to kill me, too?"

Still sought in a nationwide federal alert was Charles Marzano, 42, whom police described as an adept safe-cracker and an expert at circumventing sensitive security alarm systems. Marzano was believed to have fled Chicago.

Both Marrera and Marzano were questioned last year in

Rolison Is Needed

Maintaining a low profile has always been the trademark of one of the area's most proficient state senators. Jay Rolison, who represents the sprawling 39th senatorial district, is that type of unique officeholder who eschews headlines and attention-getting sophistry but manages to always get the job done for his constituents. Before the 1972 reapportionment, Sen. Rolison was well-known in Ulster County as its senatorial representative. It was our loss when his remapped new district only brought him as close to us as Northern Dutchess.

Vying for his fifth term in the state's upper house, this Republican-Conservative candidate still maintains close touch with his constituency. An example of this is his utilization of a "traveling office," allowing him close contact across the breadth of the 102-mile-long district. In Albany, he is chairman of the Standing Committee of Local Government, and the Senate Energy Committee. His experience in legislative affairs is recognized by all who are familiar with his activities.

One further point regarding Sen. Rolison's dedication to his office. His financial statements indicate that the senator had an income of just over $25,000, $23,000 of which was derived from his official salary. He gleaned less than $50 a week from his private law practice. That's as close to a full-time legislator as one can get.

Rural Crime Scene

Rural crime, described by one local investigator as simply "big city crime in the country," is on the upswing in Ulster County, much to the chagrin of private citizens and law enforcement agencies. State Police report that incidents of burglaries, forgeries, larcenies and robberies in areas covered by the Hurley and Highland stations rose by an alarming 30 per cent for the first nine months of 1974 as compared to last year. The troopers point out that today's thieves are more mobile, using autos to reach homes and farms that previously had been relatively inaccessible.

Additional reasons cited for this increase in lawlessness is an increase in population for the county, with many former city residents moving to the countryside. A few rotten apples naturally go with the trend.

Also, the drug culture, that is hopelessly waning but nevertheless still very much with us, provides another key to the situation. Users need bread — not the kind one eats, but the kind one spends with the pushers to obtain heroin and cocaine — pushers, by the way, who are both of the domestic variety and imported from New York City. The money to support a consuming drug habit can hardly be earned honestly, therefore, the rise in all types of criminal activities.

The lower courts also are held partially to blame by law officers. Revolving door justice, allowing convicts to be released prematurely, an overly permissive attitude toward youthful offenders, a breakdown of respect for the law, are all elements contributing to the problem.

There are no easy solutions to what really is a national problem, but keeping a watchful eye on a neighbor's property, reporting suspicious characters and a general awareness that life in the country isn't as idyllic as it once was goes a long way to help.

Voluntary Fuel Saving

The American public may be in for restrictions on the purchase of gasoline if it ignores the voluntary fuel conservation programs proposed by President Ford.

It is reported the President is already considering imposition of import quotas on foreign oil and a Sunday gasoline ban if the voluntary fuel conservation programs fail to meet goals.

The quota system under study would limit the number of dollars the United States would spend on foreign oil each year, rather than the number of barrels.

Through voluntary energy-saving, President Ford is seeking to reduce foreign imports by one million barrels a day.

And even though a ban on Sunday gasoline sales would be an extreme step, it may be necessary if the public does not heed Mr. Ford's warnings. Such a ban proved highly effective in curbing consumption during the Arab boycott last winter.

The White House has said the Sunday ban and import quotas were parts of the "tough turkey" program Mr. Ford promised in his television speech if voluntary anti-inflation methods fail.

It is important for the American people to practice the energy-saving plan proposed by the President. It would be unfortunate if the apathy of the American public forced the President to issue energy-saving regulations.

WASHINGTON — Secretary of State Henry Kissinger is supposed to be using his diplomatic skills to settle the Cyprus controversy. But the classified diplomatic cables contain no word of the heavy "negotiations" that President Ford has said are going on.

On the contrary, the Turks appear to be settling down for a permanent stay on Cyprus without discussing it with Kissinger. They are setting up a civilian administration in the northern third of the island.

Telephone lines have been strung to the Turkish mainland and former Greek shops are now being operated by Turkish Cypriots.

Classified cables from Nicosia also disclose that citrus fruit from Cyprus is being transported to Turkey where it is exported as Turkish products.

The cable traffic also discloses that the Turks have banned all Greek religious services in the occupied towns. Over 170 Greek Orthodox priests have been removed from their parishes. Two churches, according to the cables, have been burned to the ground.

INJUSTICE TO INDIANS: There appears to be no end to the injustice inflicted on our neglected native Americans.

Documents in our possession describe severe overcrowding, inadequate care and outright malpractice in our Indian Health Service hospitals.

There is such a shortage of doctors at Oklahoma's Claremore Indian Hospital, for instance, that nurses have been taught to perform surgery.

The documents show they have performed circumcisions and episiotomies in violation not only of state laws but of the Health, Education and Welfare's Dept.'s rules for protecting human subjects.

Moreover, Indian parents weren't told that nurses were circumcising their babies. Claremore's chief of pediatrics, Dr. Edwin Jones, who has resigned under fire, said he believed the parents would develop "unnecessary anxiety" if they knew nurses were performing the surgery on their babies.

The tragedy is that Dr. Jones felt it was necessary to teach surgery to nurses, thus violating state laws, federal regulations and ethical codes, in order to provide the bare minimum of health care for the Indians.

Footnote: The hospital's chief of staff has confirmed these abuses in a confidential memo to Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., whose subcommittee is investigating Indian health care.

DUAL ROLES: The back door to many a congressman's office can be reached through his law practice. But in the case of two bespectacled, Long Island lawyer-congressmen, the same door has admitted constituents and clients alike.

Reps. Jack Wylder and Jim Grover, both Republicans, came to Congress together in 1962. Each was entitled to a congressional office in his home district, so each simply moved his congressional activities into his law office.

Practicing law and conducting the public business out of the same office was an economy for the congressmen, since the taxpayers put up money for salaries, rent and telephones.

But constituents might have wondered whether they would get a legal bill for bringing problems to their congressmen.

Wylder has assured us he separated his congressional and legal offices a couple of years ago.

Grover still serves his clients and constituents out of the same Babylon, N.Y., premises. But he insisted that he pays $205 rent each month out of his own pocket on top of the $350 from the government.

He also claimed he supplements the salaries of the two secretaries in his Long Island office, Edith Dirkes and Lorraine Proulx, who draw close to $19,000 a year from the taxpayers.

Grover also put Sam Markowitz on the public payroll for $20,000 a year. However, the latter appears to be working not for the taxpayers but for the local Republican party. He is reachable at Suffolk County Republican headquarters where he is a press spokesman.

Wylder, incidentally, has accepted campaign contributions from several government contractors, although this appears to be against the law. He received donations from Sidney Horowitz, chairman of the P & F Industries; Frank Lauro, chairman of International Hydraulics; A.J. Roach, associated with Telecommunications Industries; and Howard Ris of the Ris Paper Co.

The stature barring contributions from federal contractors, it should be pointed out, is broadly worded and had never been enforced. The Justice Dept. has refused even to issue an advisory opinion on the law's application.

Wylder denied any wrongdoing.

WASHINGTON WHIRL: Minority businessmen are furious because the Alaska pipeline builders have been virtually ignoring them in spite of a law stressing the need to hire black, Chicano and other minority-run firms. Out of $4 billion in contracts, only around $50 million have gone to minority-operated companies. Latin-origin businessmen are particularly steamed up; they have gotten only $5,000 worth of contracts. All along, critics of the Federal Energy Administration have been saying it works hand-in-glove with the big power companies. Sure enough, the Atlanta office of FEA has been passing out a press kit prepared in part by the Georgia Power Co., one of the companies FEA is supposed to be regulating.

Inside Report

Wilbur's Bad Night

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

CONWAY, Ark. — Rep. Wilbur D. Mills probably will win a 19th term in Congress, but the jarring change in his treatment by the folks back home was mercilessly evident during his first full day of campaigning following the Tidal Basin gaucherie.

Mills was visibly shaken at Conway High School when students hooted and whistled at his brusque answers to probing questions. When Mills ignored the Tidal Basin in addressing Conway's civic clubs, some businessmen grumbled he was taking too much for granted. After strolling through the Wilbur D. Mills Center for Social Studies now under construction at his alma mater, Hendrix College, he was interrogated by newsmen who wanted intimate details about his visits to the Silver Slipper striptease joint.

As the imperious chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, who has made Presidents tremble, Mills is unaccustomed to such treatment. Nevertheless, except for obvious displeasure with the high school students, he disguised emotion and coolly discussed the economy in the authoritative, lucid style that has awed the House for two decades. Indeed, he will answer no more questions about his personal life.

The overwhelming consensus is that this strategy will bring victory in the first real challenge to Mills since his first-term primary election in 1938, if only because his Republican opponent, Judy Petty, is a 31-year-old divorcee and neophyte candidate. But the stunned disappointment among his constituents suggests Mills might be in deep trouble against a more formidable foe.

Mills's problems at home started with his abortive campaign for President in 1972. This year's linkage of that campaign with shady milk lobby contributions shocked constituents. Although Mills had privately predicted Mrs. Petty could get no more than 15 per cent, a recent poll gave her 40 per cent.

Still, Mills declined to campaign. He sent back all contributions (including $300 from Henry Ford). When a labor official informed him that steelworkers' union members at the Alcoa chemical plant in Benton were dropping him for arch-conservative Petty, Mills took no action to woo them back.

Moreover, waiting a week after the Tidal Basin incident before returning home permitted opposition to solidify. His contrite opening speech to the Little Rock Jaycees was ineffective. But there is doubt whether he can now be silent about the incident any more than Thomas Eagleton, Edward M. Kennedy and Richard M. Nixon were able to halt exploration of their more serious difficulties.

The most concise election appraisal was delivered by an aged lawyer encountered by Mills last week in the musty corridors of the Cleburne county courthouse in Heber Springs. "Wilbur," he croaked, "if it weren't this divorced Republican woman but some man in a Democratic primary, I don't know if you'd make it."

Apart from her sex and marital status, Mrs. Petty seems ill-equipped to challenge Mr. Taxation. While advocating fiscal responsibility to fight inflation, she is proposing several tax-reducing measures. How much would her package lose in revenue? She wasn't sure but told us a reporter for the Wall Street Journal estimated $10 billion. That, however, covered only an increase in personal exemption. The entire package would probably lose the Treasury over $15 billion.

Though an enthusiastic admirer and oratorical imitator of California's Gov. Ronald Reagan, Mrs. Petty courts liberal critics of Mills by attacking him as chief architect of tax loopholes for special interests—big oil, for example. Yet when we questioned her she advocated partial retention of the oil depletion allowance, backed natural gas deregulation and allowed as how she was inclined to decontrol all oil prices.

Mrs. Petty, attractive and articulate though she is, cannot compare with Mills delivering jeremiads on the deteriorating economy and critically analyzing President Ford's economic policy. A cogent, frequently eloquent 25-minute lecture on the economy at a VFW dinner in Heber Springs reminded listeners exactly what Mills intended — that their Congressman is one of the giants of Congress with immense influence over the economy.

"We love and respect this man," one VFW member told us. "We can forgive one bad night, one mistake." Thus, in his first hours back home last week, Mills tried to picture the gaudy affair at the Tidal Basin as an aberration, not the pattern of a secret swinger.

Suspicious Arkansans are divided whether to accept this, but not all the skeptics consider Mills's private life as cause for ending his public career. "I feel ashamed and let down by Mr. Mills," a little old saleslady in Little Rock told us. But she does not want a memorable career to end on so shabby a note and will vote to send "Mr. Mills" back to Washington. She desperately hopes it will be the old Wilbur Mills returning to full use of his intellect and legislative mastery at a time when the need was never greater.

Beauticians Make House Calls

My old man had the foot doctor come in to chop his toenails. The fee was $15 and Pop flew into a rage and demanded his nails back. Long ago, when haircuts hopped from 75 cents to a buck, he asked me to do the work for nothing.

I snipped as he sat looking into a bathroom mirror. No matter how hard I tried, one side was always higher than the other. It tilted his head, so I used the electric shears on the other side. The final result was reminiscent of the Iroquois, but Big John was nearedighted and murmured approvingly, "Son, you shoulda been a barber."

He's gone, and I'm left with an assortment of ladies who are addicted to hair and face. Mrs. B. spends hours at the beauty parlor. Whatever she does requires time. She comes home with a lot of juicy gossip, but the hair appears to be just as blonde and sometimes as stiff as though her finger were in an electric socket.

Kathi wanders around her cell with hot electric curlers screwed into her head. When Karen completes her blue eyelids and lipstick and the rest of it, I could press a towel to her face and get a portrait akin to Veronica's veil.

Women spend billions for beauty. As Deborah Haber points out in New York magazine, many of them endure exercise which leave no stern untuned. Ms. Haber says that all the chic beauticians are now making house calls. This is great for ladies who arise looking like Haitian Voodooes.

Experts will glue your eyelashes on for a fee. Sebou, whose salon is on East 68th Street in Manhattan, is an Iranian who will give your husband a haircut for $40 while giving you a cut, wash and blow-dry job for $20. Suga will bring his bag of goodies to your apartment for $25 an hour, but, even if he snips but one cuticle, the fee is never less than $25. He also wants taxi fare both ways. De Vega will run his sensitive fingers through a lady's scalp for $75, giving her an herbal shampoo and a haircut.

It is difficult to surpass the services of Way Bandy. For a lousy $100, he will visit you at home, do your makeup, apply eyelashes one by one, give you the inside lowdown on facial exercises, skin treatments, dental cosmetics, plastic surgery, and tell you what to wear. Bandy works six days a week. "Never on Sunday."

Haber says that Gloria Natale can make a new woman of you. This pains me because I'm just getting used to the old one. She'll even teach you how to make up your own face, depending upon who you would like to be on a given day. Archie Bunker, anybody?

There is a man named Stan Place who, for $100, can reduce the suitcases under your eyes to change purses. He obliterated those dreadful diagonal lines. He can even suntan you, if you're in the mood to be tanned. One thing irritates Stan: poor lighting in your apartment.

You may want your legs defuzzed. Gina Chenko will do it with warm wax. Up to the knee is $20; whoops is $30. Moi, a Chinese lady whose name rhymes with oyl, will trim your fingernails for $14. She's heavy on the wax works and will give you her bikini special for $40. If your hormones are whacked out and you're growing a mustache, Moi will make it disappear for $10.

Everything has a price — right? Giessella Varga will give you a one hour massage (ladies only) for $15. If you order 10, she'll give you one rub on the house.

Men, who are hairy goats, must pay Axel Stolt $20 an hour. He'll flip your flab on his table for a couple of treatments, after that, he expects you to spring for your own.

Perhaps the most incredible, to me, is Joseph Rottenburger. He specializes in calisthenics and massage. It is said that Mr. Rottenburger showed the Queen Mother of Great Britain how to do pushups, and gave her a rubdown. But what the heck — he's been rubbing the editor of Vogue for 40 years. He sounds like an old smoothy.

A few weeks ago, I saw my kisser on the cover of The Miami Herald's Tropic magazine. Believe me, brethren and sistern, an automobile jack couldn't do anything for that kisser. I would be happy to call any of the massage magicians, but if they lifted this face I would have to remove my hat to brush by teeth...

"My dear, I did NOT compromise my principles in getting this coat. Mink is NOT an endangered species!"

Local Auto Workers Favor Magnarella

POUGHKEEPSIE income Americans." Local consumer and taxpayers with the UAW President Anthony D'Amico said. The proposals included elimination of regressive taxes — including the onerous hot dog tax — consumer legislation "with teeth in it," a restructured Public Service Commission "geared to protect the people, against rip-off utility rates," and a complete overhaul of the "scores of inefficient, expensive and overlapping agencies of state government." Magnarella said, "This measure alone would save the taxpayers in excess of $100 million."

"Trimming costs, cutting taxes, protecting the consumer, these were the measures the Republicans should have adopted in Albany in a year in which inflation has been the number one concern of our people. They chose instead, to take care of their own... protecting big business and the special interests," he said.

Bell Attacks New York City Democrats

WOODSTOCK Assemblyman H. Clark Bell has expanded on his theme of "upstate versus New York City," citing two defeated bills that "clearly show the callous disregard for those of us in the upstate community."

"Human nature tells us there is a natural tendency to favor your own and if New York City Democrats control state government it is only logical to expect New York City to be the principle beneficiary of state programs," Bell said. He recalled the so-called Baker Bill that passed both houses of the Legislature when it was controlled by city Democrats in 1965. The bill would have exempted the city from paying taxes on the upstate reservoir system.

"Such legislation," he stated, "could cost the upstate watershed towns and school districts about $16 million, and towns such as the Town of Olive would become disaster areas. Fortunately, Governor Nelson Rockefeller was there to veto the Baker Bill."

Another example of "the kind of very expensive ride upstate can look forward to" given by Bell was the 1974 auto registration bill introduced by Franz Leichter, a New York Democrat. The bill would have raised auto registration fees to bring in $300 million earmarked as a mass transit subsidy to save the 35 cent subway fare.

Bell stated that the increased fee calls for $1 per 100 pounds on cars weighing up to 2,500 pounds; $3 per 100 pounds on cars weighing up to 4,500 pounds; and $4 for those over 4,500 pounds.

As an example he gave the Chevrolet Vega, a compact car, fee of $32.50 in addition to the regular fee. And a station wagon would be considered a "luxury vehicle," he said, with a wagon weighing 4,000 pounds to be charged a fee of about $120 (no matter how old it is).

"In many of our suburban and rural communities a car is not a luxury, and in Ulster County it is truly a necessity," he said. "Yet the Democratic proposal would penalize upstate residents to support New York City subways."

Gilman Pledges Fair Campaign Practices

MIDDLETOWN A. Gilman (R-26th Dist.) has signed the Fair Campaign Practices Code.

The code, published by the National Fair Campaign Practices Committee, contains a series of promises designed to promote "vigorously contested but fairly conducted campaigns."

In signing the code, Rep. Gilman promised:

- To discuss the issues sincerely and frankly.
- To protect the right of every qualified voter to equal participation in the electoral process.

- To condemn the use of personal vilification, character defamation, whispering campaigns and "scurrilous attacks on any candidate for his personal or family life."
- To condemn the use of distortion or misrepresentation of the facts concerning any candidate.
- To condemn any appeal to prejudices based on race, sex, creed or national origin.
- To condemn any dishonest or unethical practices.
- To publicly repudiate any such tactics used by his own supporters or those of his opponent.

"I willingly put these principles on record and request my opponents to join with me, in abiding by them," Rep. Gilman said. "Only in this way can we have a true debate on the issues and a fair campaign and election. Every political candidate should be willing to sign this code and live up to it."

Gilman is opposed in the 26th District race by Democrat John Dow and Conservative Thomas Moore.

Angell Charges 'Fence-Sitting'

POUGHKEEPSIE Nick Angell, Democratic candidate for Congress in the 25th District, has accused his incumbent opponent, Rep. Hamilton Fish Jr., of "fence-sitting."

"I have issued more than 66 press releases since the beginning of my campaign," Angell said. "I have made hundreds of public appearances at which I always tried to express my views clearly, and I have taken part in seven public debates."

"I must compliment Sanford Cohen, Free Libertarian candidate, on his efforts to speak out on the issues, although we completely disagree on most important issues."

"However, during this entire campaign the incumbent Congressman, Hamilton Fish Jr., has continued his six-year policy of 'fence-sitting' by failing to take clear, unequivocal positions on several crucial issues, even though I have spoken out strongly on each and asked him to do the same."

Among the issues Angell charged Fish with avoiding were inflation, tax reform of oil companies, assistance for the construction industry, property tax reforms, practice of law by Congressmen while in office, greater Congressional control over the CIA, FBI, AND IRS, and impeachment, claiming that Fish had "finally voted the right way on impeachment of President Nixon) only at the last minute when he had no choice and after he had taken a poll which told him that's how two-thirds of the voters in his district wanted him to vote. I stated my position on impeachment without qualification on March 16," Angell said.

"Other issues on which Angell claimed Fish had not taken a public stand include post-Watergate reforms, pardon of Nixon and other Watergate defendants, personal financial disclosures of Fish and his wife, sources of campaign financing, reform to eliminate incumbent advantages in campaigning, and use of out-of-state laborers in Heritage Hills in the Town of Somers."

"The media in our district is contributing to the uninformed state of voters if it fails to condemn the failure of candidates for public office to take clear, decisive positions on major issues," Angell said.

"Maybe I'm a little naive, but I still believe that the best candidate should win — and that can't possibly happen if one of the candidates continues to sit on a fence throughout the entire election."

Lefkowitz Hits Statement

NEW YORK CITY State Attorney General Louis J. Lefkowitz has taken exception to a statement by his Democratic opponent, Robert Abrams.

Lefkowitz quotes Abrams as telling a Binghamton newspaper: "My opponent, Louis Lefkowitz, has gotten away with murder for 18 years. I think he is the number one consumer fraud in New York State."

Lefkowitz said that his record "stands up against my opponent's reckless language. In 1957, long before consumer protection was a popular issue, I established the first special unit to combat consumer fraud in any attorney general's office in the nation. In the last 10 years my office has helped over 150,000 New Yorkers with consumer problems. In 1973 alone, we recovered more than $15 million for victimized consumers."

Lefkowitz said there are over 60 new consumer laws on the books which he had recommended, and that many of them have served as models for consumer legislation in other states.

"My opponent's statement goes far beyond any permissible bounds of fair comment in a campaign," Lefkowitz charged. "It does nothing to inform the public on the issues, but seems designed only to inflame."

"This statement is, but another instance of my opponent's efforts to impugn my integrity. I deeply resent it, as I resented his recent false insinuation that I benefited from financial gifts or other monetary considerations while serving as Attorney General."

"From the recently published Newsday-Gannett Newspaper poll and from the reactions of people I meet each day in the streets, it appears my opponent's smear tactics are also resented by the people. He owes the people and me an apology."

State Law Professors Endorse Justice Cooke

MONTICELLO Leading law professors from every law school in the state have endorsed the candidacy of Appellate Division Justice Lawrence H. Cooke for Associate Judge of the Court of Appeals.

It was announced recently by Professor David D. Siegel of Albany Law School, chairman of the Law Professors For Cooke.

Speaking in behalf of the over 75 members of the committee, Siegel praised Cooke for his scholarship and dedication to much-needed legal reforms. "Justice Cooke exemplifies the modern judge — scholarly and articulate, dedicated and visionary," Siegel said. "One does not leave his courtroom without feeling he has had a full and fair hearing."

Cooke, the Democratic-Liberal candidate, has received the highest rating of the New York State Bar Association — Well Qualified. He has advocated numerous reforms in the legal system, including creation of a Uniform Felony Sentence Review Court to end unjustified disparity in criminal sentences, a four-point program to reduce delays in the administration of justice, and changing aspects of the rape law which presently discourage victims from reporting the crime.

Vaselewski-Schule Wedding Reported

Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church in Kingston was the setting for the wedding of Arlene Ann Vaselewski, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Vaselewski of 139 Stephan Street, Kingston, and Paul R. Schule Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul R. Schule Sr. of 10 Jane Street, Poughkeepsie.

The Rev. Alvin F. Messersmith, pastor, officiated at the ceremony. Miss Sherry Heldron, organist, accompanied John Amarello who sang wedding selections. The bride, given in marriage by her parents, selected a gown of imported maracaine jersey fashioned with a shaped and modified Empire bodice, a high, sheer yoked neckline, and long, tapered sleeves. Handclipped Alencon lace floral patterned motifs accented the bodice. The lace was highlighted with an applique of seed pearls. The gown featured an A line skirt and a cathedral length, built-in train. She wore a Camello styled headpiece, custom designed in matching lace with seed pearl appliques, to which was shirred her three tiered, silk illusion veil. She carried a bouquet of white roses, white and light blue pompons.

Miss Linda Schaller of 139 Linderman Avenue, Kingston, was maid of honor in a gown of light blue boucle jersey styled with a scooped neckline and sleeveless bodice in the princess styling over an A-line skirt. An ensemble effect was created with an abbreviated jacket in matching fabric. She carried a round bouquet of royal blue pompons and white baby's breath and wore a matching crown headpiece.

Miss Carol Vaselewski, sister of the bride, Kingston, was junior bridesmaid. Attendants were Miss Diane Schule, sister of the bridegroom, Poughkeepsie, and Mrs. Mary Golneck, Kingston. Their royal blue jersey gowns were identical in styling to the maid of honor's. They carried round bouquets of light blue and royal blue pompons with baby's breath and wore matching floral headpieces.

Frederick W. Schule Jr. of Rutherford, N.J., was best man for his cousin. Ushers were Michael Vaselewski, Kingston, brother of the bride, and Kevin Plattner, cousin of the bride, Lake Katrine.

A reception was given at Roberto's in Port Ewen.

The bride, a 1967 graduate of Kingston High School, is employed at New York Telephone Company in Poughkeepsie.

The bridegroom, a 1968 alumnus of Roy C. Ketcham Senior High School, received his AA degree in 1970 from Dutchess Community College and his BS degree in 1972 from State University College at Brockport. He is employed as a supply and purchasing agent for St. Cabrini Home, Inc.

The couple will reside at 35 Hoffman Street, Kingston.

Helpful Hints From Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Here is a trick for jelly-makers that I discovered after years of making jelly and spilling it between ladle and glass.

Pour the hot jelly into a clean, hot glass percolator and pour into the glasses. Saves time and burnt fingers, and no danger of breaking the percolator.

A.F.H.

Dear Heloise:

Our son needed his spelling book covered for school. Not wanting to use paper bags, newspaper, etc. I decided maybe my shelf covering paper might do the trick. (Not the sticky type.)

It didn't hurt the material of the book and is very practical, inexpensive and washable.

Nets Hanging Tough In First Half Play

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer

The scores might go over the century mark most of the time, but any pro basketball coach will tell you defense is the key to victory.

"We have been playing our best defense in our last few games," said New York Nets coach Kevin Loughery. "In our last couple of games, we had held teams to under 30 points at the half."

The Nets gave up only 37 points in the first half enroute to a 109-91 American Basketball Association victory over the Spirit of St. Louis. In the only other ABA action Sunday, Utah stopped San Diego 95-80.

In the National Basketball Association Sunday, Los Angeles defeated Phoenix 123-116 while Portland crushed Seattle 120-94.

Loughery said St. Louis mistakes and poor shooting can be attributed partly to inexperience, "but we have a quick defense and like to force those mistakes."

St. Louis was able to penetrate the Nets' defense for only 14 points in the second period while New York, behind Julius Erving, center Billy Paulitz and forward Larry Kenon, rolled to a 60-37 advantage at halftime. Erving ended up with 20 points and 13 rebounds to take game scoring honors. Rookie Marvin Barnes scored 24 points, high for St. Louis.

Guard Ron Boone fired in 17 points in the second half to lift the Utah Stars to victory. Boone wound up the night with 28 points, high for the game, while San Diego's Caldwell Jones had 20 points, including 14 in the last quarter.

Rookie Bill Walton dominated the backboards and John Johnson and Sidney Wick provided the scoring punch for the Portland Trail Blazers. Johnson scored 14 points and pulled down seven rebounds in the first period of the nationally televised game.

The former University of Iowa star wound up with 28 points even though he sat out the final quarter. Wick added 22 while Seattle's Fred Brown paced all scorers with 32.

The Los Angeles Lakers slapped a tight defense on Phoenix for the first five minutes of the third period, running off a 13-0 spurt to increase their advantage to 21 points.

Jim Price and Gail Goodrich tallied 27 points apiece for the Lakers while Charlie Scott got 18 for the Suns.

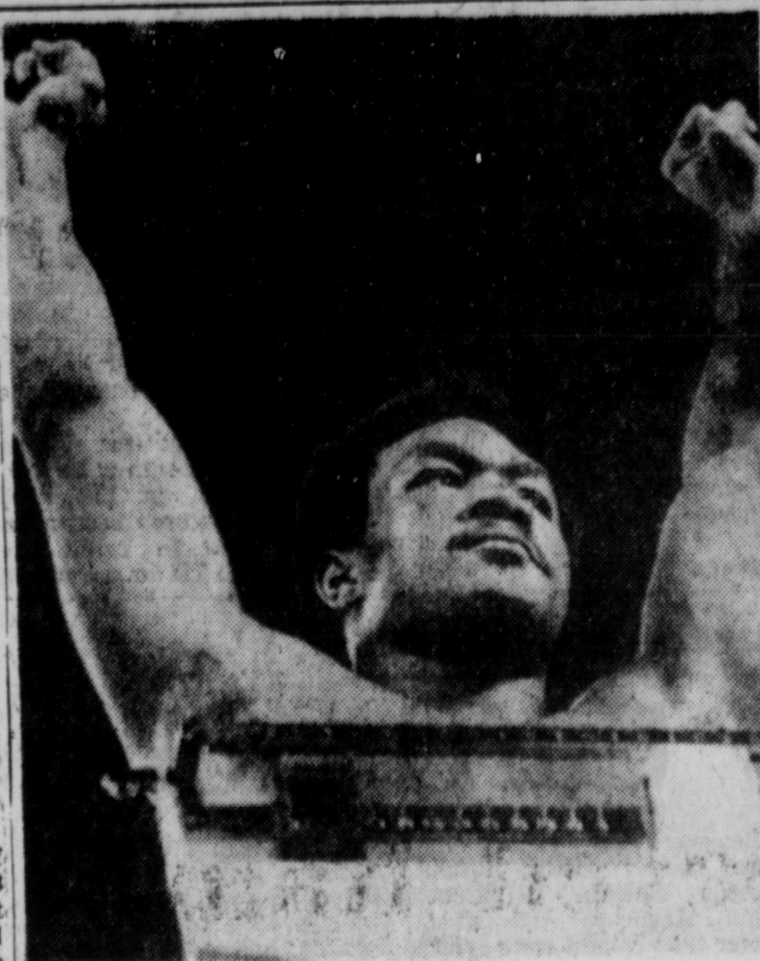

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Yomiuri Giants, taking advantage of five walks by Jack Aker, scored twice in the ninth inning to tie the New York Mets 4-4 in a game called by mutual agreement after 10 innings.

A capacity crowd of 50,000 fans turned out to see the Mets blow a 4-2 lead in the bottom of the ninth inning in the second game with the Giants. Sunday's game was postponed because of rain after the Giants won Saturday's opener 10-7 on Sadaharu Oh's grand slam homer.

The game ended in a tie on an agreement between Mets Manager Yogi Berra and Tetsuharu Kawakami, the Giants manager.

Aker, who started the eighth and got by without trouble, walked the first three batters in the ninth to load the bases. Takeshi Ueda scored as pinch-hitter Masahiko Mori grounded out. Isao Shibata was walked intentionally to load the bases but Aker walked Yukiobu Kurose to force in the tying run.

Berra called in right-hander Hank Webb and he put out the fire as Shigeru Takada lined to third baseman Joe Torre for a doubleplay. Webb got into trouble in the 10th when the Giants put runners on first and third with two out. But he

Richman Picks Ali

NEW YORK (UPI) — George Foreman is the 3 to 1 choice over Muhammad Ali, and in other words, there hasn't been any great last-minute rush of financial support for Ali in these last remaining hours before he and Foreman come face to face in their world heavyweight confrontation tomorrow night at Kinshasa, Zaire.

Privately, bookmakers laugh at those who repeatedly put their money on the underdog, and say they hope these customers keep doing that because they make a good living off them. Bookmakers have a name for bettors who habitually lean toward the short-enders. They call them suckers.

Tomorrow night's underdog, Muhammad Ali, doesn't look like a particularly good bet against the much stronger more murderous hitting Foreman.

At 32, Ali is six years older than the man he's going up against. He's still quick with his hands and on his feet as well, but he no longer has the stamina and energy he once did, which is natural enough when a man grows older, and nifty left jabs to the face.

Stockton Was Surprise

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The favorites came through in New Zealand and Iran, but a young American, Dick Stockton, was the surprise winner in the Australian South Pacific Handcourt Tennis Tournament Sunday.

Stockton swept past Australian Davis Cupper Geoff Masters, who had eliminated top-seeded John Newcombe of Australia in the semifinals, 6-2, 6-3, 6-2 to post his first overseas victory, worth $5,000.

American Raz Reid and Alan Stone of Australia captured the doubles title, defeating American Mike Estep and Aussie Phil Kröng 7-6, 6-4.

Top-seeded Roscoe Tanner of the United States took the singles title at Christchurch, New Zealand, stopping injured Ray Ruffels of Australia 6-4, 6-2.

Ruffels pulled a muscle in his right foot in the first set and Tanner immediately seized the opportunity to capture the $5,000 first prize.

Because of Ruffels' injury, Tanner and Ismael El Shaffi of Egypt were awarded the doubles crown by default.

In Tehran, Iran, Guillermo Villas of Argentina, the favorite, crushed Mexico's Raul Ramirez in the finals of the $100,000 Aryamehr Professional Tennis Cup tournament. Villas, who won 6-0, 6-3, 6-1, picked up the $15,000 first prize.

Villas teamed with Manuel Orantes of Spain to beat Ramirez and American Brian Gottfried 7-6, 2-6, 6-2 in the doubles final.

Snead Loses In Playoff

PINEHURST, N.C. (UPI) — right rough while Watson was in the left rough. Snead, however, went past the green behind a clump of trees with his second shot on the par 4 first hole, virtually assuring Watson of a win. Watson was on the green in two and two-putted for a four while Snead had a six.

Watson, playing in a three-some ahead of leader veteran Sam Snead, dropped an 80-foot birdie putt on the 18th for a 69, and then Snead two-putted the same green, throwing them into a tie and forcing a sudden death playoff which Watson easily won.

"I was nervous but I was more nervous after it was over than when I was playing. After three rounds I was trying to make the top ten. After a good start today, I decided I could win," said Watson, who finished at 284.

In third at 286 was first round leader Bob Benson from Easton, Conn., followed at 288 by Ron Letellier of Cold Springs Harbor, N.Y.

Snead, who picked up $9,900 with second place, pushed his tee shot on the playoff into the

Allison and Fittipaldi Win in Their Own Ways

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) — his take from six races to $65,000.

Third place went to Warwick Brown of Australia, fourth to Al Unser and fifth to Graham McRae of Costa Mesa, Calif.

McRae, Redman, Brown and Al Unser drove Lola-Chevrolets. McRae was in a car of his own design.

It all happened at Riverside International Raceway during the weekend. And a two-day turnout of about 40,000 loved it all.

Allison, a 36-year-old stock car driver from Hueytown, Ala., was injured in a massive pile-up of cars shortly after the start of Saturday's second heat in the International Race of Champions series.

He spent a while in a Riverside hospital and didn't get to run in the race, won by two-time world champion Emerson Fittipaldi of Brazil.

But he was back Sunday for the third heat, after spending the night on a heating pad nursing a hairline fracture in an upper vertebrae. Not only did he win his race but will be one of nine drivers who will go on to the final race at Daytona Beach, Fla., Feb. 14.

A purse of $200,000 will be distributed, based on a points system, with $40,000 going to the over-all winner.

Fittipaldi, who placed fifth in the first race in Michigan a month ago, won Saturday's event and placed third behind Allison and Bobby Unser Sunday.

goes to Florida as the points leader. He has 41 points to 38 for Unser, with George Follmer in third place with 36 and Allison fourth with 33.

Also moving into the finale were A. J. Foyt, David Pearson, Cale Yarborough, Sweden's Ronnie Peterson and 1974 Indianapolis winner Johnny Rutherford.

Richard Petty, stock car racing's biggest winner; two-time world champion Graham Hill, and South African Formula 1 ace Jody Scheckter were eliminated.

Andretti, one of the world's top road racers, won the final race in the year's Formula 5000 series. But the championship he had worked for all season went to England's Brian Redman, who needed only to finish fifth or better to win it. He trailed Andretti all the way to finish second.

Andretti, who revealed that some one stole his favorite helmet just before the race, was consoled somewhat by a check of more than $13,000. It brought

Titans and Atlas in Tie

A big first half by the Atlas and a big second half by the Titans powered each squad to a victory in the Exchange Club Junior Football League over the weekend as the clubs ended the season in a tie for first place.

The Atlas rolled over the Mercurys, 32-6, and the Titans crushed the Saturns, 27-7. In one other game, the Apollos beat the Agenas, 6-0.

Steve Jackson took off on touchdown runs of 35, 30 and 55 yards to boost the Atlas out to a 26-0 lead at halftime. Jim Brown added to the spread with a three yard dive in the first quarter and a 40 yard ramble in the final period to end the scoring. The lone Mercury touchdown came on Tim Murphy's five yard burst in the second quarter.

Jon Davis put the Titans ahead for keeps with a 28 yard touchdown run in the third period. The Saturns had taken an early lead on Terry McWeeney's fifth TD for the season

Rangers Top Flames

Bruins Unfriendly

By United Press International

The Boston Bruins are never particularly good hosts but Sunday night they were downright unfriendly to an "old pal."

Former Boston coach Bep Boudoin, now coach of the Kansas City Scouts expansion team, were the visitors at Boston Gardens and the Bruins played like they wanted to punish him for all those $50 fines he handed them.

Extending their unbeaten streak to five games, the Bruins routed the Scouts, 8-2, even though the Scouts outshot their rivals, 36-35. It was the eighth straight winless game for the Scouts who have been on the road since their training camp opened eight weeks ago because their new rink isn't ready.

Phil Esposito and John Bucyk each scored two goals and Wayne Cashman, Don Marcotte, Bobby Schmautz and Dallas Smith also scored.

The Toronto Maple Leafs defeated the Washington Capitals, 4-3. The Buffalo Sabres beat the Montreal Canadiens, 3-2. The New York Rangers scored a 4-1 triumph over the Atlanta Flames and the Chicago Black Hawks whipped the St. Louis Blues 10-3 in other National Hockey League games.

Leafs 4 Capitals 3
George Ferguson's goal at 9:01 of the third period enabled the Leafs to hand the Capitals their seventh loss in nine games and square Toronto's record at 3-3-3. Ferguson, who scored one of two first-period Toronto goals, took a pass from Ian Turnbull and beat goalie Ron Low.

Sabres 3 Canadiens 2
Craig Ramsey's long bouncing shot caromed off rookie Danny Gare into the Montreal Net at 9:39 of the third period as the Sabres maintained their first-place spot in Division Two. The Sabres outshot the Canadiens, 29-27.

Rangers 4 Flames 1
Second-period goals by Derek Sanderson and Bobby Rousseau led the Rangers to their win over the Flames. Walt Tkaczuk and Greg Polis added goals in the third period, with Polis' the 100th of his NHL career.

Black Hawks 10 Blues 3
Darcy Rota scored his first major league three-goal hat-trick while Chicago coasted to its fifth straight victory. The triumph lifted the Hawks past idle Vancouver and into sole possession of first place in Division Two.

However, the victory may have been costly because veteran Chicago defenseman Keith Magnuson and all-star center Stan Mikita were injured and sent to the hospital for x-rays. Magnuson for a wrist injury and Mikita for a possible shoulder separation.

In WHA action Indianapolis beat Quebec 5-3. Minnesota edged Chicago 6-5 in overtime. Winnipeg whipped Michigan 5-2 and Toronto's game at Cleveland was postponed when the ice-making machines failed.

Racers 5 Nordiques 3
Indianapolis erupted for three goals in the second period to capture its first WHA victory and hand Quebec its first loss of the season.

The expansion team, loser of its first five starts, took a 4-1 lead with the scoring outburst from Rick Pimble, Joe Robertson and Bo Sciacinski and held on to snap the Nordiques' four-game winning streak.

Fighting Saints 6 Cougars 5
Veteran Wayne Connolly blasted in a slapshot from the play.

Dahlia Wins in Canada

TORONTO (UPI) — Favored back, was the five-year-old Big Dahlia surged through the Spruce, followed by Careny's stretch Sunday to set a new point and London company.

track record and win the Dahlia had been seventh in $152,750 Canadian International Championships at Woodbine, the early running in the field of nine. Piggott kept her to the richest race every held in rail most of the way and then went between tiring horses at the top of the stretch, according to Nelson Bunker Hunt and celebrating with about an eighth of a mile to go.

Piggott, ran the 1 1/2 mile in two minutes and 40 seconds, much Piggott said, "I suppose one second faster than she could have won by more."

Dahlia, whose next start will be the DC International at Laurel, Md. Nov. 9, has now won a major stakes in five States prior to her Canadian Finishing second, one length victory.

Cook Modified Champion

MARTINSVILLE, Va. (AP) — Jerry Cook of Rome, N.Y., earned only $800 in his appearance in the Dogwood Classic, but he won something probably more valuable—the National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing's Modified championship.

A sixth-place finish in the 250-lap Modified race that opened the Sunday doubleheader at the Martinsville Speedway gave Ray Cook the title over the defending champion, fellow Model Sportsman race pick Rome, N.Y., driver Richie up $6,100.

The Year of the Romp in Ulster County Football

By STEVE KANE

KINGSTON

The UCLAF has made one large departure from tradition this season, and it can be classified under the category, "margin of victory." Unlike recent seasons where the 6-0 or 8-0 game was standard fare, this year has been marked by the romp.

Over the first five weeks the average cushion of victory for the winning team was 16 points. On the sixth week it got bigger. Rondout Valley's 14-7 triumph over Onteora didn't hurt that statistic, nor did Red Hook's surprising 20-0 win over Highland. But this time the numbers have special meaning. Several teams have run up big scores on OCS this year, so why is Rondout's feat so significant? Because the Ganders were supposed to be a defensive team; because they had scored only 58 points in their four preceding contests; because they had not overwhelmed anyone with ball control.

Well, that image is no longer true. It takes a certain amount of skill just to score that many points regardless of the opponent. Bob Krom and the line in front of him were spectacular. When Red Hook goes visiting next week, there will be a whole football team waiting.

By all pregame standards, the Red Hook - Highland clash should have been close. That it wasn't was a tribute to the Raider defense. Few teams beat Highland let alone hold the Big Blue scoreless.

The other eyebrow-raising aspect of the game was the manner in which the Raiders won — on the ground. New Paltz coach John Ford, whose team had faced both squads, called the Big Blue a tougher team, and few disagreed with him, but the Raiders went right at those big tackles anyway.

The loss dropped Highland into a three way tie for third with Walkill and Pine Bush.

both winners this time out. Walkill had its hands full but managed to keep Marlboro out of the victory column for another week. Pine Bush showed a few interesting sparks while defeating Ellenville.

The Bushmen may yet be a factor in deciding the UCLAF crown, depending on what happens in the next two weeks, of course. The final Rondout game of the year will be at the Pine Bush field.

It hasn't been quite the season that Bushman coach John Shaughnessy hoped for, and much of the reason has been a sputtering offense. Sophomore Mark Warren took over the controls this season, and he found replacing Tom Engles to be a big job.

Saughnessy, who admitted he had thoughts of shifting veteran running back Stan Gill to the quarterback slot, now is glad he stuck with the youngster. "He's coming along now," Shaughnessy said.

Warren threw for one touchdown and ran for another in the 20-8 win over the Ellies.

The league's most unpredictable team continues to be New Paltz. The Hugies have scored nearly 30 points per game in their three victories yet have been totally shutout in their three defeats.

To finish over 500 coach Ford will have to come up with a solution to the problem. The remaining Huguenot schedule is not an easy one.

Old Standbys in Driver's Seat in College Football

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN

AP Sports Writer

Although the college football season has been chock full of upsets, the status seems to be quo in most of the major conference races.

To be sure, Texas A&M leads the Southwest Conference, Maryland tops the Atlantic Coast Conference, Yale and Harvard share the Ivy League lead and surprising VMI heads the Southern Conference, but elsewhere the old, old standbys are still in the driver's seat.

Ohio State, the No. 1 team in

The Associated Press ratings, and No. 3 Michigan are atop the Big Ten and heading toward another showdown Nov. 23 while the same holds true in the Southeastern Conference, where fourth-ranked Alabama, 3-0, and No. 5 Auburn, 2-0, tangle Nov. 29.

Oklahoma, runner-up nationally, is the only unbeaten team in the Big Eight; sixth-ranked Southern California, despite a sluggish start, is leading the Pacific-8; Arizona State, 14th nationally, is No. 1 in the Western Athletic Conference; West-of Ohio, rated 19th, tops the Mid-American Conference; San Diego State heads the Pacific Coast Athletic Association and Tulsa leads the Missouri Valley. All were or shared their conference titles last year.

In weekend action, Ohio State buried Northwestern 55-7 as Archie Griffin ran for 173 yards on 19 carries and tied the all-time college record of rushing for 100 yards or more in 17 consecutive regular-season games set by Oklahoma's former Heisman Trophy-winner, Steve Owens.

Steve Davis and Joe Washington led Oklahoma to a 35-0 half-time bulge over Kansas State and the Sooners demolished the Wildcats 63-0, their second triumph this season by that score.

Gil Chapman scored twice and Rob Lytle and Gordon Bell combined for 289 yards on the ground in leading Michigan to its seventh consecutive Little Brown Jug triumph over Minnesota, this one by a 49-0 count. Robert Fraley and Jack O'Rear, subbing for two injured quarterbacks, led Alabama to a 41-3 rout of Texas Christian while Phil Gargis passed for two scores and ran for another as Auburn belted Florida State 38-6.

For a change, the upsets were few and far between as the first 15 teams in the rankings all won.

Sixth-ranked Southern California whipped Oregon State 31-10. No. 7 Notre Dame crushed Miami of Florida 38-7 and No. 8 Texas A&M blanked Baylor 20-0.

But it wasn't easy for all the survivors. Ninth-ranked Nebraska needed a fumble recovery at its own one-yard line and an interception at the 14 in the final 3½ minutes to turn back Oklahoma State 7-3.

Tenth-ranked Penn State turned a blocked field goal attempt into a gift touchdown and went on to defeat West Virginia 21-12. And No. 11 Texas Tech blocked a punt in the final period that led to the winning touchdown in a 20-17 victory over Southern Methodist.

Texas, ranked 13th, trounced Rice 27-6 and No. 14 Arizona State whipped New Mexico 41-7. In the only meeting of ranked games, No. 15 Maryland trimmed No. 17 North Carolina State 20-10.

Besides N.C. State, three other members of the Second Ten went down to defeat — Arizona, Tulane and California.

No. 16 Arizona was swamped by Brigham Young 37-13 as Gary Scheide threw for five touchdowns and the BYU defense intercepted five passes.

Rudy Allen, a diabetic, led 100-yard games. Ohio State's Georgia Tech to three first-half Griffin became the first Buck score before being forced out eye to rush for more than 1,000 yards in the game by his illness and yards in two successive seas. The Yellow Jackets went on to sons. He hit the 100-yard mark defeat previously unbeaten Tulane 27-7.

Rounding out the Top Ten the contest midway through the yard, Rob Carpenter ran for 181 yards and three touchdowns as

No. 19 Miami of Ohio downed Toledo 38-22 but No. 20 California fell to UCLA 28-3 as Bruin quarterback John Scaria threw a long touchdown pass and ran for another score in the first half before suffering a broken ankle.

In addition to equaling Rudy Allen, a diabetic, led 100-yard games. Ohio State's Georgia Tech to three first-half Griffin became the first Buck score before being forced out eye to rush for more than 1,000 yards in the game by his illness and yards in two successive seas. The Yellow Jackets went on to sons. He hit the 100-yard mark defeat previously unbeaten Tulane 27-7.

Rounding out the Top Ten the contest midway through the yard, Rob Carpenter ran for 181 yards and three touchdowns as rushing yards and completed six of seven passes for 105 more.

The list of unbeaten-untied teams is down to seven — Alabama, Auburn, Michigan, Ohio State, Oklahoma, Temple and Yale. Miami of Ohio and Penn State are unbeaten but once-tied while Hawaii, Princeton and Tulane suffered their first setbacks Saturday.

Barb Van Keuren '600' Titlist

KINGSTON

Any southpaw bowler who can convert three 7-pins in the covert three of a championship pressure of a championship woman, who generally use as final deserves to win something. That's what Barbara Van Keuren did in defeating Linda Baxter, 181 to 170, in the finals of the third annual Kingston Woman's Bowling Association's 600 Club tournament at Mid-City Lanes.

"I always play the 7-pin down the left side of the lane," said the free-wheeling left hander, 406, then advanced with scores of 175, 213 and 179 to reach the finals.

Mrs. Baxter averaged 188, opening with a qualifying 394 and added 203, 173 and 182 enroute to the finals.

The title was the first for Mrs. Van Keuren in a 13-year career. A year ago, she was eliminated in the second round.

A solid, four-stepper with a high, flowing backswing has a sharp breaking hook. "I stay within one board of the second arrow," she pointed out. "The 7 pins don't bother me."

The new champion didn't have to wait long for a 7-pin tap. It came in the first frame and she cleaned it up while Mrs. Baxter started with an open frame on a chop. Mrs. Van Keuren picked up another 7-pin in the fourth frame, the 5-pin in the fifth and a strike in the sixth and spared in the 7th box to open up a commanding 138-101 lead.

Mrs. Baxter missed the 9-pin in the third frame and picked two pins off a 4-7-10. The only double in the championship finals was turned in by Mrs. Baxter in the 10th frame but Mrs. Van Keuren needed only seven pins to close it out in the 10th but she spared and filled with seven pins for 181.

The results:

Hinchey Lists Conflict Specifics

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON — Maurice Hinchey, Democratic Liberal candidate for the Assembly who has repeatedly charged the incumbent Assemblyman H. Clark Bell (R-101st Dist.) with conflict of interest going down to specifics today regarding Bell's banking interests.

Hinchey charged that the conflict hinges on the fact that Bell charges two years ago when he is a member of the Assembly's Banking Committee and the at that time he couldn't understand why he wasn't getting his State Committee a list of charges in real estate, insurance, mortgage, and client-related areas which he will detail later this week.

Banking Committee and the at that time he couldn't understand why he wasn't getting his State Committee a list of charges in real estate, insurance, mortgage, and client-related areas which he will detail later this week.

Hinchey, who made similar adding however that, "Clark is advantage of the banking community and the disadvantage of the general public."

The Saugerties Democratic Hinchey charged that Bell state banking department from accepting employment with a banking institution under the jurisdiction of that department for at least two years.

Hinchey recalled six bills before the legislature pertaining to credit unions saying Bell in each instance was pro-bank and anti-credit union in his voting.

He also cited Bell for voting against amendments which would have prevented lending institutions from withholding consent when the seller of a one or two-story house had found a buyer; would have prevented banks from profiting by delaying escrow mortgage payments to municipalities; would have limited the penalty charge for late payments; would have permitted a homeowner to repay his mortgage without penalty; would have permitted higher interest rates on escrow accounts and would have extended interest on escrow accounts to mortgages already in existence.

Bell was alone in his opposition to another measure which would have provided that a satisfaction of judgment, filed with the clerk be mailed to the judgment debtor. This would have given judgment debtors written proof of having fulfilled their obligations, he said.

Hinchey also pointed to banking reform bills which he said never got out of committee including one that would have required that regular interest be paid to the borrower on the sum paid by him to a savings bank or loan association on account of real estate taxes, insurance premiums, water rents and in custody of the bank or association. Another would have provided that banks be more specific in furnishing interest statements to depositors. Still another would have required four per cent interest be paid on checking accounts with balances of $50 or more. Also suppressed was a measure to require at least one-third of the banking trustees be elected by depositors of record.

Feraca Given 30 Days to Appeal

By WADE BURKHART

KINGSTON — State Supreme Court Justice George L. Cobb has signed an order which took effect Saturday, giving Kingston Board of Education President Joseph Feraca 30 days to file an appeal of Cobb's earlier decision requiring Feraca to resign from the school board or quit his job with the Kingston Police Department.

According to the Cobb's order, the stay will continue until the Appellate Division renders a decision on the Feraca appeal, as long as Feraca gets on the Appellate Division's March calendar.

In the case originally brought before Cobb, Feraca was seeking to overturn a decision by State Education Commissioner Edward B. Nyquist which said that Feraca, under State Education Law, had to resign either his police post or his school board seat. Cobb's order reaffirmed his decision to dismiss the Feraca suit.

It has been suggested that Feraca could resolve the whole situation by resigning his seat, and having the school board reappoint him, since a new law passed in the last term of the State Legislature allows policemen in Feraca's situation to sit on school boards. Feraca, in a press conference today in the offices of his attorney, Peter C. Graham of the firm of Napoletano, Kelly & Saccamano, ruled that out.

Feraca said he had never asked his fellow board members if they would go along with such a plan, and never would. "If we do not win," said Feraca, "... the right (to say who sits on the school board) should be given right back to the people."

Feraca said he and his attorneys were going to push for a ruling by the Appellate Division before the May 1975 school board elections. If the decision goes against him, Feraca said he would run in the election to fill the one-year vacancy he was creating, if he wanted to stay on the school board. Feraca, whose term runs until July of 1976, said if the Appellate Division decision was against him and came after the election, he would probably resign.

He all but ruled out taking an unfavorable Appellate Division decision to the Court of Appeals, saying it would cost "at least $1,000" money he said he didn't have. Feraca said the court fight so far had cost, even with a lot of free work from his attorneys, from $1,800 to $2,000, most of it coming from a personal loan Feraca has taken out and the rest from a fund some "friends" have set up.

The NAACP, which has pressed the fight to get Feraca off the board, has raised the possibility that Feraca, if he is sitting on the school board illegally, will owe the City of Kingston about $30,000 in back salary. Graham said he's researched that question, and it is "crystal clear" that Feraca does not owe the money, no matter what.

'Don't Apologize for Me'... Martin

KINGSTON — Reacting to a statement issued last week by former Ulster County Democratic chairman James T. McCordle, who apologized for seconding the nomination of Sheriff William B. Martin and who withdrew his support of the Democratic-Liberal candidate, Sheriff Martin said today he doesn't want any one apologizing for him and doesn't understand McCordle's statement.

"I was happy to receive the Democratic nomination because I thought that those who voted for me did so because they are convinced that whatever my party registration I am not a political creature and that I am best qualified by training and experience to hold the office of sheriff," Martin said.

Martin said he felt the nomination was an affirmation of the understanding that "there were no strings attached."

Of McCordle's statement that he had been "hoping against hope" that the sheriff would say something constructive about solutions to the problems at the Ulster County Jail, Martin said, "I have already done that. If Mr. McCordle takes exception to my understanding of these situations, that is his privilege. But please don't anybody apologize for me."

Saying that he is "short on political qualifications," Martin called on residents to choose the candidate best qualified as a law enforcement officer as sheriff.

Martin is opposed by Republican Conservative candidate, Thomas F. Maynone, and Independent Yvonne Walliser in his bid for reelection.

Pair of Fires Being Probed

KINGSTON — Police have been called in to investigate two incendiary fires which occurred Sunday night in Kingston, including one which destroyed a garage and a car at 194 West Chestnut Street.

The West Chestnut Street blaze was discovered shortly before 8:30 p.m. The garage was fully involved in flame when fire fighters arrived, officials said. A 1958 Chevrolet in the garage was also destroyed.

The garage and car belonged to Miss Helen Sheldon of 194 West Chestnut Street, firemen said.

Meanwhile, a brush fire of incendiary origin off Col. Chandler Drive was also doused by city fire fighters Sunday night. Firemen were called out to the brush fire at about 7 p.m. No injuries were reported in either blaze.

Elsewhere, men from the Accord, Allgerville and Kerhonkson fire companies battled flames Sunday night which caused slight damage to the Ken Potter residence at the Majestic Bungalow Colony on Mettacahtons Road. The cause was undetermined, fire officials said. No injuries were reported.

Cohen Tells His Story Of Finding Patricia Hearst

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — to a shootout or a re-prison when she got back, I backed out.

"I got hot that they didn't tell me that from the beginning," he said.

Cohen said he located her hiding place "through my connections in the black community in Los Angeles." These were "radical groups—completely black," he said, who placed him in contact with persons in Cleveland.

The Los Angeles Times quoted an informed source as saying Cohen was contacted by a black racketeer, eager for a share of the $50,000 reward money, who located the fugitives through his network of runners.

Cleveland, where Cohen lived as a youth, is also the home of Delano Defreeze, brother of Donald Defreeze, leader of the SLA band that kidnaped Miss Hearst.

On Oct. 7, Cohen met with Miss Hearst's parents, Randolph and Catherine Hearst, at a Los Angeles restaurant. The Hearsts have confirmed the meeting took place.

"My only interest was bringing back the little lady to her mother and father," Cohen said. "I didn't want to have anything to do with sending somebody to the joint, so I put out the word for them to clear out of Cleveland."

The FBI has refused to say how seriously it takes Cohen's information. "I don't tell the FBI nothing," Cohen said.

Queen Elizabeth 2 Damaged by Gale

CHERBOURG, France (UPI) — The British passenger ship Queen Elizabeth 2 ripped loose from her mooring in a 63-mile-an-hour gale Sunday night, injuring two longshoremen and tearing an 82-foot gash in her side, maritime authorities said today.

None of the approximately 2,000 passengers was injured, maritime authorities said. The ship is the second largest in the world after the France.

Doctors at Cherbourg hospital today amputated both legs at mid-thigh of one of the longshoremen.

The other longshoreman, trying on the dock to control the thrashing liner, was injured slightly and was recovering at home, hospital authorities said.

Maritime authorities said the QE2 docked at Cherbourg from Southampton, England, and was scheduled to depart after a few hours stop for New York. But a wind storm increased until the gale howled at an intensity officially classed by weather experts at storm strength.

Experts arrived from England today to inspect the damage. If they decide the ship can proceed to New York she could sail late tonight, maritime authorities said. If the ship must be repaired in Cherbourg her departure will be delayed approximately 48 hours, they said.

Support for Rocky Shows 11 Per Cent Drop

NEW YORK (UPI) — News-week magazine says support for the confirmation of Nelson Rockefeller as the vice president has dropped 11 per cent in one month.

Forty-five per cent said President Ford does not need a man like Rockefeller to help him run the country, as surveyed favor confirmation opposed to 41 per cent who said he did.

Newsweek said Sunday two Harris polls taken last month showed support for Rockefeller's confirmation had slipped from a 55-31 per cent majority to 47-40.

Respondants to the Gallup divided 42-41 per cent.

HOME HEALTH SERVICES — The Nursing Division of Ulster County Health Department, emphasizing the observance of Home Health Services Week, set up displays at various locations in the Kingston area including the County Office Building lobby, Main and Fair Streets, Kingston; Mammoth Mall, Kingston, and the lobbies of Kingston and Benedictine Hospitals. In attendance at the County Office Building display are Nancy McKinley, RN and County Health Commissioner Dr. Bartholomew B. Dutto.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices turned lower at the opening today on the New York Stock Exchange.

Minutes after the opening the Dow Jones industrial average gave up 2.98 to 633.21. Declines topped advances, 286 to 171, among the 680 issues traded. Volume was around 600,000 shares.

Analysts were awaiting the reaction of the market to a spread in the prime lending rate cut to others in the banking industry. A number of other banks have followed the lead of First National City Bank of New York in lowering this key rate to 11 per cent.

Van Explodes At Army Camp Near Belfast

BELFAST (UPI) — A stolen van packed with explosives blew up a canteen at Ballykinler army camp today, causing death and many injuries.

At least one person was killed and 32 injured, 14 of them seriously, the British army reported. Most of the injured were soldiers.

Firemen who doused the flaming remains of the shattered canteen 200 yards outside the World War II camp found the charred body of one victim.

Helicopters flew the injured to a hospital in Belfast, 24 miles away, and another about five miles from the camp.

The force of the blast shattered windows in a nearby primary school, but none of the children was hurt. School officials dismissed classes for the day.

An army spokesman said whoever planted the bomb knew there would be a large number of civilians and soldiers at the canteen. He called the attack "completely indiscriminate."

Fair in Foul Weather Aids Ulster SPCA

WORKERS AND FRIENDS — Matt Margopoulos (L) Jeffrey O'Hara, and Maria Margopoulos make friends with Misty, Muffin, Moppet, and Mindy, all former residents of the Ulster County SPCA kennels. The children of the Zena area, recently celebrating National Dog Week, earned $40.45 for the SPCA with a fund raising fair.

ZENA The fair, planned for more than six weeks, featured seven games to play and food to buy. In addition to the games, a food table overseen by Matt Margopoulos offered hot dogs, Koolaid, popcorn, penny taffy, and hot coffee for cold wet grownups.

Game booths at the fair were managed by Jeffrey, Susan, and David O'Hara. Maria and Marlee Margopoulos, and Kathy Eubanks. The prize table

County Medical Council To Deal With Emergencies

KINGSTON A group of volunteers is assembling an Ulster County Medical Emergency Council to deal with concerted community-wide emergencies.

The Commission on Emergency Medical Services has reviewed the experience of emergency medical services councils and has sought the opinions of experts from numerous groups. The consensus is that concerted community action is essential to adequate emergency service.

According to Gilbert Gray of the Council, in the contest of medical services, the emergency can be of any magnitude from the single traffic casualty or cardiac arrest to the mass victims of a fire, an explosion, or a hurricane.

"Once the basic system is established and operating, it is primarily a matter of phasing in more community resources when the number of casualties increases," he said.

Four basic components for a good emergency care system were listed as: broad based training for on the spot first aid; a good communications system; well equipped emergency vehicles; and high quality emergency care facilities, staff, and equipment at the hospital level.

Ulster County's Medical Emergency Council has nominated and elected officers, and is at present drawing up its constitution and by-laws. Officers are: Harriet Weber, chairman; Esther Yeager, secretary; Charles Arnold, Robert Kurland, and Jerry Nocton, vice chairmen; Roger Kelly, treasurer; Al Morelli, fire services; Gilbert Gray and Daniel Fochi, ambulance rescue; Charles Cooper, law enforcement; Mary Finger, hospital and health manpower; Joseph Ferrera Sr., safety and accident prevention; Al Cawein, public relations; Raymond Morris, radio communications.

Any questions from interested persons may be addressed to Gilbert Gray at 77 Greenkill Avenue, Kingston.

Bogus Money Seized, Four Men Arrested

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Secret Service agents Sunday made the largest seizure of counterfeit money in U.S. history — over $6 million in $5, $10 and $20 bills — and arrested four men.

Robert E. Powis, special agent in charge, said the arrests and confiscation of the bills ended three weeks of intensive investigation.

Arrested were Leonard O. Salmon, 39, Lakewood, Kenneth C. Wall, 48, Buena Park, Robert J. Spratte, 33, Whittier, and Sam J. Anders, 35, Compton.

Most of the money — $7.5 million — was stacked inside a van. Over $750,000 in additional phony money was found at the Gus Printing Co., Hawaiian Gardens, which is owned by Wall.

Powis said that the offset printing press used to manufacture the bills was located at a residence in Cerritos.

Negatives and plates were allegedly made at the printing company, according to Powis, and the actual printing was done at the Cerritos residence.

The van was enroute to the printing company for cutting the bills when it was seized, the agent said.

Powis said he was confident none of the bills had entered circulation.

Puerto Rican Rally Peaceful at Garden

NEW YORK (UPI) — Puerto Ricans held a peaceful independence day rally at Madison Square Garden Sunday, one day after five bombs, apparently set by Puerto Rican nationalists, rocked Manhattan.

The bombs exploded within a 30 minute period in midtown Manhattan and in the financial district, damaging buildings which housed major banks and corporations. There were no injuries.

Members of a group calling itself the Armed Forces of Puerto Rican National Liberation claimed responsibility for the bombings.

While the explosions were not mentioned during the rally, because "my ancestors... fought 200 years ago for the right for the United States to be independent," she said it was "a travesty" that the U.S. "should allow Puerto Rico to remain a colony."

Youth Arrested By City Police

KINGSTON City detectives arrested a burglar at the home of the Rev. George Baker, 72 Wurts Street. Items taken in that theft were allegedly found at Hardin's home, police said.

A breakdown and total value of items recovered was not immediately available.

Hardin was released in his own recognizance following arraignment in city court Saturday.

Fair in Foul Weather Aids Ulster SPCA

WORKERS AND FRIENDS — Matt Margopoulos (L) Jeffrey O'Hara, and Marla Margopoulos make friends with Misty, Muffin, Mopet, and Mindy, all former residents of the Ulster County SPCA kennels. The children of the Zena area, recently celebrating National Dog Week, earned $40.45 for the SPCA with a fund raising fair.

ZENA The fair, planned for more than six weeks, featured seven games to play and food to buy. In addition to the games, a food table overseen by Matt Margopoulos offered hot dogs, Koolaid, popcorn, penny taffy, and hot coffee for cold wet grownups.

Game booths at the fair were managed by Jeffrey, Susan, and David O'Hara. Marla and Marlee Margopoulos, and Kathy Eubanks. The prize table

County Medical Council To Deal With Emergencies

KINGSTON A group of volunteers is assembling an Ulster County Medical Emergency Council to deal with concerted community-wide emergencies.

The Commission on Emergency Medical Services has reviewed the experience of emergency medical services councils and has sought the opinions of experts from numerous groups. The consensus is that concerted community action is essential to adequate emergency service.

According to Gilbert Gray of the Council, in the context of medical services, the emergency can be of any magnitude from the single traffic casualty or cardiac arrest to the mass victims of a fire, an explosion, or a hurricane.

"Once the basic system is established and operating, it is primarily a matter of phasing in more community resources when the number of casualties increases," he said.

Four basic components for a good emergency care system were listed as: broad based training for on the spot first aid; a good communications system; well equipped emergency vehicles; and high quality emergency care facilities, staff, and equipment at the hospital level.

Ulster County's Medical Emergency Council has nominated and elected officers, and is at present drawing up its constitution and by-laws.

Officers are: Harriet Weber, chairman; Esther Yeager, secretary; Charles Arnold, Robert Kurland, and Jerry Nocton, vice chairmen; Roger Kelly, treasurer; Al Morelli, fire services; Gilbert Gray and Daniel Fochi, ambulance rescue; Charles Cooper, law enforcement; Mary Finger, hospital and health manpower; Joseph Ferrara Sr., safety and accident prevention; Al Cawein, public relations; Raymond Morris, radio communications.

Any questions from interested persons may be addressed to Gilbert Gray at 77 Greenkill Avenue, Kingston.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

YES OR NO? (Q) There is this boy that I have known for as long as I have a memory. We have grown to have a special feeling for each other. Last month he asked me to have sex with him and I was surprised.

I told him to wait for a while and he said he understood. I have been thinking about it but I haven't gotten very far. I really want to but I keep changing my mind. I love him enough to have his child and marry him.

He says he feels the same way but I can tell that he is getting tired of waiting. Please tell me what to do.—16 in Alabama.

DOUBLE DATE (Q) Jack and I are steady daters. My problem is that his mother goes wherever we do. He is her only child and she loves him very much, but this makes me very uncomfortable.

How can I tell her in a nice way to get lost?—Haunted in New York.

(A) You can't. But you can invite Jack—only Jack—to visit you at your home. And you can talk with HIM about the problem of his mother.

He is the one who will have to solve it. If he can't, or won't, I suggest you give up on him and find a boy you won't have to "double date" with.

Little Progress at Summit

RABAT, Morocco (UPI) — Diplomatic sources said today the Arab summit meeting may end in deadlock because of a struggle between Jordan and the guerrilla movement over representation of the Palestinian refugees.

The Arab sources said three lengthy negotiating sessions at the three-day-old summit meeting have deepened hostility between King Hussein of Jordan and Yasser Arafat, head of the Palestine Liberation Organization.

They said Moroccan King Hassan, the summit chairman, may ask the 21 Arab leaders to stay on beyond today's scheduled closing in a last bid to solve the dispute.

If the talks still end in disagreement, the sources said the leaders of the 20 Arab League nations and the PLO might decide to postpone a resolution on the issue.

"The chances of a compromise solution here are virtually nil," a conference official said. "Hussein is fighting with all his strength the most difficult diplomatic fight of his career."

Arab leaders looked with interest to an expected speech today by Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, a moderate known to favor further negotiated Israeli withdrawals.

Hussein came to the summit virtually isolated.

At a foreign ministers meeting before the summit, Jordan was the only nation opposed to a draft resolution granting the PLO authority over any portion of the occupied West Bank region evacuated by Israel.

King Hussein, however, appeared to be picking up some summit support among moderate Arab leaders for giving his government authority over the region, which Jordan lost to Israel during the 1967 Middle East War.

Hussein said Sunday Arafat would be responsible for further talks with Israel if the PLO gets authority over that territory. Israel has vowed it would never deal with the PLO.

Diplomatic sources said moderate Arab delegations seemed to be impressed by Hussein's claim that support for the PLO would make peace with Israel impossible.

Ted Gives the Details

BOSTON (UPI) — Sen. Kennedy elaborated on the details of the accident and the political implications of the night of the death of Mary Jo Kopechne in a car accident on Kennedy said a judicial ruling in 1969 that negligent driving was the probable cause of the accident, which appeared today, mistaken.

He said a study he commissioned by the Arthur D. Little Co. showed his driving was not negligent when the car went off a narrow bridge on the island in 1969.

Kennedy did not report the accident until about eight hours after it occurred.

He responded, "No," when asked if there was "any political discussion either the night of the accident or the next morning about the political consequences of the accident."

He said the political repercussions were considered after he reported the accident and was preparing a televised statement on it.

Kennedy pleaded guilty July 25, 1969, before Judge James A. Boyle to a charge of leaving the scene of an accident and was given a suspended sentence of two months. Boyle later presided over an inquest into the accident.

The Little report said "braking alone will not prevent a car traveling at 20 m.p.h. from going over the rail" of the bridge, the Globe said in its Sunday edition.

Kennedy admitted that his failure to report the accident until the morning after it happened was "irrational and indefensible and inexcusable and inexplicable."

Kennedy attributed his immediate failure to report the accident to the fact that he almost drowned a second time during the night when he swam across a 500-foot channel between the island and Edgartown, where he was staying.

Senate Candidates Debate

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — veteran, said price controls "might work on a temporary basis, but proposed legislation to give the existing federal price and wage board power to oversee price and wage policies."

The three Republican incumbents Jacob K. Javits, Democrat Ramsey Clark and Conservative Barbara Keating, met in a televised debate.

Clark flatly stated that the federal government should impose wage and price controls, saying, "We have had a Congress that sat around too long and did nothing while food prices inflated 20 per cent."

Javits, an 18-year Senate back inflated prices and to tax "excessive profits," saying "President Nixon was not really serious" about enforcing the previous price and wage controls.

Javits said he would give the price and wage board power to subpoena company records and to impose cooling off periods of up to 60 days to determine if price and wage controls were justified.

He said his "federal food budget" would involve deciding at the beginning of a year how much food the country had to produce and setting standards and policies to insure that production.

Both Javits and Clark said they favored additional public service employment to help the unemployed.

Mrs. Keating, however, said "I represent the taxpayers who would have to pay for those jobs. My opponents have forgotten that there is unemployment because business is in trouble."

The three also split on the question of the need to temper or postpone environmental standards to aid industry and save jobs.

Javits again took the middle road, saying, "Congress must equate economic concerns with environmental progress, suggesting that some timetables for environmental standards must be 'stretched out.'" But he promised environmentalists TV.

Mrs. Keating said, "Mr. Javits and Mr. Clark are concerned about unemployment, but they seem to have forgotten that the automobile industry employs hundreds of thousands. She said environmental standards were forcing the layoffs of many auto workers."

The three debated on WBEN-TV.

Wilson, Carey Discuss Death Penalty

NEW YORK (AP) — Gov. Malcolm Wilson, who planned to attend the funeral today of a slain state trooper, says he will continue the airing of controversial television commercials that attack his opponent's opposition to the death penalty for killers of policemen.

In a debate Sunday at the New York Daily News, Democratic challenger Hugh Carey protested the commercial.

"You have the casket of a policeman at a funeral, implying that I was responsible," he told the Republican incumbent.

"That is unspeakable in terms of campaign tactics and I hope you have the decency to withdraw it."

While calling Carey "a good, decent man who doesn't want crime," Wilson said he was concerned about his opponent's "permissive attitude." Asked after the debate whether he would drop the commercial, Wilson snapped: "Of course not!"

Wilson planned to attend the funeral of Emerson J. Dillon, who was shot to death Thursday apparently while trying to arrest three robbery suspects on the East Thruway near Canastota, state of Syracuse.

The trooper, the father of six, will be buried in Phoenix, near Syracuse.

The controversial commercial opens with the sound of a funeral drum and shows police officers carrying the coffin of a slain policeman. The narrator says the policeman was killed trying to prevent a holdup. Wilson supported the death penalty for "cop killers," says the narrator, while "Carey laughed it off and his running mate voted against it."

State Sen. Mary Anne Krupak, the Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor, opposed the bill when it was submitted in the legislature earlier this year.

In a Sunday breakfast meeting with the Shomrim Society for Jewish policemen in New York City, Wilson accused Carey of calling the death penalty commercial "a showboat by public employees and casino gambling."

In other political activity Sunday, Atty. Gen. Louis J. Lefkowitz and Democratic challenger Robert Abrams accused each other of accepting questionable campaign contributions.

Lefkowitz said Abrams, the Bronx borough president and a member of the New York City Board of Estimate, accepted money from persons doing business with New York City.

Abrams said Lefkowitz accepted money from his staff.

A model named Jane Mitchell portrayed Lady Godiva bareback during a ride on a handsome horse in Central Park to protest high taxes.

Miss Mitchell, who wore a body suit, publicized the campaign of Jerry Tuccillo, Free Libertarian candidate for governor.

The New York Daily News published a statewide poll showing Carey with a lead of 59 to 41 per cent over Carey. Wilson said he was encouraged because the poll showed that he was gaining. "The movement is away from Carey," he said.

The Fraternal Order of State Troopers, the union representing state policemen, endorsed Carey. John Donohue, president of the union, said that Wilson failed to seek funds to train more state policemen.

In the debate at the News, Carey sat impassively while Wilson spoke. Wilson occasionally smiled and shook his head at Carey's comments.

Wilson repeated his charge that the pension plans for civil servants have become so inflated that the cost is bankrupting local governments. Wilson promised to try to reduce the pension plans for new employees if elected.

"Your own pension plan is in excess of $50,000 a year for life," Carey retorted. "I don't see how you can tell others you're going to shut down their pension plan when yours is pretty generous."

Wilson said he had not calculated the payments he would receive. The benefits are based on the length of state service and Wilson was an assemblyman for 20 years and lieutenant governor for 15 years before becoming governor last December.

Wilson said the pension plan for state legislators, one of the most generous, was written by Edwin Margolis, husband of State Sen. Mary Anne Krupak, the Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor. Margolis is a lawyer on the staff of the Democratic minority in the State Assembly.

On other topics:

—Wilson opposed strikes by any public employee, while Carey said that only such public employees as policemen and others protecting public safety should be denied the right to strike.

—Wilson opposed casino gambling in the state. "No way. Wherever it is, it's in the hands of the hoods," he said. Carey refused to rule it out. "If New Jersey starts to draw away tourism with casino gambling then we better look at it. But that's a way downstream."

Kissinger Talking

NEW DELHI (UPI) — topics for today's two-hour Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger began his first round of formal talks with Indian leaders today, seeking assurances that India will only use technology for its new-found nuclear power for peaceful purposes.

Kissinger, who flew to New Delhi from Moscow Sunday on assurances that India does not have a 65-hour fence-mending mission to barter its nuclear power, faced some tough bargaining expertise to the Arab nations in his discussions with oil and food, possibly Prime Minister Indira Gandhi touching off a dangerous arms and Foreign Minister Y.B. Chavan.

U.S. officials said India, on the other hand, was May 18 nuclear blast topped seeking American acceptance Kissinger's agenda of priority of its position as the leading power in South Asia and U.S. promises of food.

When Washington "tilted" toward Pakistan in the 1971 Bangladesh War, India vowed it would never again accept American aid.

But faced with 500 starvation deaths a day, India "yearningly" asked for a resumption of U.S. food shipments.

U.S. officials say Kissinger will complete negotiations during the visit on the amount of food to be provided this year, but the agreement will not be announced until after he leaves India.

The officials said New Delhi wants to avoid the appearance that Kissinger came as a diplomatic Santa Claus bearing gifts.

During his one-hour meeting with Mrs. Gandhi, Kissinger was expected to assure the worldwide structure of peace in which all nations "feel they have a sense of participation."

Before the meeting, Mrs. Gandhi and Kissinger spoke to newsmen briefly, agreeing that Indo-U.S. relations were "on the way up."

Kissinger and Chavan were scheduled to sign an accord this afternoon to establish a joint commission to speed up American investment in India and arrange scientific and cultural exchanges.

Kissinger was scheduled to fly to Bangladesh Wednesday for the third leg of a nine-nation, month-long tour of Europe and Asia.

'A Lonely Life'

TORONTO, Ontario (AP) — Margaret Trudeau says the stress of being the wife of Canada's prime minister, anxiety over the birth of their second child and her first active political campaign all contributed to the mental troubles that sent her to the hospital last month for psychiatric care.

She was not ready to be Canada's first lady when she married Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau in 1971 and the marriage was "a total catastrophe in terms of my identity," she said in a television interview Sunday.

She added: "I prepared myself for my marriage to Pierre Trudeau, but I didn't prepare myself for my marriage to the prime minister."

She was 22 then and Trudeau was 51.

Mrs. Trudeau, who says she is still a "flower child," said loss of freedom is one of the worst problems of life in the executive mansion in Ottawa.

"It's like being a prisoner because I'm never alone, except inside the house," she said.

"It's certainly not the glamorous, exciting life that most people think it is. It's a lonely life. It's not a free life — but it's a good life."

She said that following the
